

St. Mary's Names New Staffers

MONDAY SEP 22 1966
MORAGA — Saint Mary's College has 14 new members on its faculty this fall, according to Dean Rafael Alan Pollock.

They are: Carlos Lozano, from the University of Oregon, who is the new chairman of the Modern Language department and will be translator of Latin American poetry.

Hubert O. Brown, from University of Chicago, director of the new graduate program in Secondary Teacher Education.

The Rev. Peter J. Riga, author and lecturer, and The Rev. Joseph Winfree Smith Jr., of Saint John's College, Annapolis, Md., in the Theology Department.

Edward D. Beechert, University of Hawaii, associate professor of History.

Dr. Martin B. Fink, formerly school psychologist at Mt. Diablo School District, lecturer in Psychology.

Marcus R. Berquist and John W. Neumayr, both of the University of Santa Clara, will teach an integrated liberal arts curriculum which will include Euclid and Physics.

From the University of California at Berkeley are J. Bonner Ritchie, lecturer in Business Administration; George L. Hersh, instructor in Biology; Arthur R. Carson, lecturer in English; Jide Ogunlana, lecturer in Physics; and Henry D. Cohen, assistant professor of Romance Languages.

Mrs. Helju Aulik Bennet, from the University of Kansas, instructor in History.

More education honors

UE SEP - 8 1992

It was in autumn of 1963 when the eight Brothers of the Christian Schools marched down the once-planked streets of San Francisco (later moved to Moraga), to take over instruction at St. Mary's College. At the time, the college was five years old and in very poor financial state. With Brother Justin directing, they were able to put the college back on its feet. Now, 100 years later the institution can look back with satisfaction, not only for its longevity but in its instructors as well. Every year St. Mary's honors its longtime professors for their years of dedicated teaching.

Perez

Perez

For 25 years of service the college honored the Rev. Owen Carroll of Berkeley and O. Desales Perez of Oakland. Honoree Rafael Pollock of Oakland has taught for 30 years at St. Mary's. Also honored for 30 years, Philip Leitner of Oakland, who held the post of dean of the school of science from 1985-1992, and now serves as assistant to the academic vice president.

St. Mary's College is a 129-year-old liberal arts college founded in 1863 and run by the Christian Brothers teaching order.

Leitner

